

DISTRIBUTION CENTER, ELMHURST, ILLINOIS

In 2003, VDTA was retained to renovate and expand an existing distribution center for a large industrial supply company in suburban Chicago. The entire project encompasses just under 1 million square feet of warehouse, distribution facilities, office, and cafeteria expansion. The completed project will merge together two separate facilities and allow for expansion over the next 30 years. The project included redesigning all the utilities, and construction of a new ring road around the site.