GARDNER-JAMES APARTMENT, NEW YORK, NEW YORK

Beginning with a most ordinary apartment, the challenge was to transform a white drywall box to a highly sculptural environment, and to achieve this transformation in an on-site construction schedule of only four weeks. A series of galvanized metal forms were developed which sub-divided the open plan into functional areas. In each case, these forms would house important functions such as the kitchen, home office, and media center. All the elements were pre-fabricated off-site, dismantled, and then re-assembled on site.
