SANTANA ROW, PARCEL II, SAN JOSE, CALIFORNIA

The building will occupy a key corner, replacing a surface parking lot and forming a second gateway to the development. As elsewhere in Santana Row, an inviting sense of place and urban scale is achieved through siting, building design and fenestration. The design is a departure from the Mediterranean themed architecture of the original development. While adopting a distinctive modern vocabulary, the design is harmonized with the precedent buildings through its fine-grained street level retail, and rhythmic façade treatment.
