TEXTURA CORPORATE HEADQUARTERS, DEERFIELD, IL

This software development company purchased an existing semi-industrial building with the intention of converting it to their corporate headquarters. The industrial character of the building included minimal window openings, so the first decision was to replace the façade with an all glass enclosure to improve the daylighting qualities and image of the building. The building includes a monumental staircase to unify both floors, a cafeteria/employee lounge and special security rooms. Because the building was originally built as part of a planned development, we updated the agreement with the municipality to show a potential second building and structured parking.
